4. An alert was practiced on the entire airport between 5 and 7 a.m. on 8 December. Previously such alerts were practiced every two or three weeks and they usually lasted about 30 to 45 minutes. The alarm signal was sounded by the air defense siren which lasted continuously for 2 to 3 minutes. The medical officers, equipped with surgical instruments, and highranking officers rushed to the headquarters in the building of the former air base company, and the soldiers assembled in front of the barracks buildings. The alarm was also transmitted by telephone. (3)

5. A Soviet officer of a unit which was previously stationed in Wittstock but now is in Rechlin, visited an officer in the headquarters building and said that his unit would soon return to Wittstock. (4)

6. The doctors living in the hospital were to move to another house and the rooms were to be used for patients.

7. One U-2 biplane took off from the field at 10:45 a.m. [Redacted] 25X1A headed north and returned in 90 minutes. No other flights were made.
